Educator and author Ruth Wilson speaks to the Seattle Area Community Forum on Connecting Children With Nature, one of many local gatherings happening as a result of the first Working Forum on Nature Education for Young Children.

Educators, landscape architects and architects, and environmentalists met to plan for ways to support each other's efforts at bringing more nature education to the children in the Seattle, Washington area. This local group is a part of the larger, international Nature Action Collaborative for Children. To learn
